Collection Overview

Biographical Information:

Thomas Morrill Carter was born on December 25, 1841 in Newton, NH and grew up with an interest in music. For one year at the age of 18, he set type in the office of the Newbury Herald. Starting at age 20, he had a long successful career in music and was honored for his accomplishments as a band leader and composer. He also had a lifelong connection with the Freemasons. In 1875, he married Percy (or Percie) Simpson Hazen, a singer from Woodstock, VT. Their children, son Carter Merrill and daughter Ann, became accomplished musicians.

Carter's professional career began with the formation of the Newton Band in 1860. The following year, he joined Hall's Band and became its leader in 1869. At this time he also studied violin with A. P. Holden. From 1869 to 1870, he conducted the orchestra of the Steamer "Providence" of the Fall River Line. In 1869, and again in 1872, he was a member of the Peace Jubilee Orchestra. In 1871, he organized Carter's Band which continued for 62 years until his death. He led that band on its first parade in 1871 at the laying of the cornerstone of the Soldiers' Monument in Boston, MA. In 1885, he joined the Boston Commandery. From 1906 to 1919, Carter's Band played at Nantasket Beach, MA.

Carter was also an active member of the Freemasons in Newburyport, MA. In 1874, he joined the Freemasons, and his band played at Masonic conclaves in Boston, Denver, Pittsburgh, Saratoga Springs and San Francisco. In 1930, he received an honorary membership in the DeMolay. Carter died at his home in Boston at age 92 in 1834. At the time of his death, he was the most celebrated and oldest musician alive in the New Hampshire and Massachusetts area.

Collection Scope and Content Note:

The Thomas Morrill Carter Papers (1824-1924) is a collection letters written by Carter to his son, postcards, photographs, sheet music, newspapers, genealogy and other miscellaneous items.

The collection contains an extensive collection of letters Thomas Morrill Carter wrote to his son from 1855 to 1879. These letters give a glimpse of everyday life in Newton, NH. Carter's son traveled often as a musician and did not see his father on a regular basis. The letters also reveal a father longing for his son to return home. Thomas Morrill Carter's son had the same name, but usually Carter addressed him as Morrill. This is not always the case, and so sometimes it is unclear if the father or son is being mentioned. A collection of newspaper articles in the papers shows the many accomplishments of Carter and the recognition he received from his fellow musicians. The collection contains several legal documents, such as a marriage license and an Internal Revenue Service license. There are many items in the collection that Thomas Morrill Carter collected himself, such as calling cards, programs from musical events and postcards.

There is also some sheet music in the collection. Carter was an impressive composer and wrote much of his own music. There are two books of sheet music on the Peace Jubilee of 1869 and 1872, which were important events in his musical career. The collection also contains the Carter Family Bible.

Arrangement:

The materials are organized in four boxes. Boxes 1-3 contain a total of 57 folders of letters, postcards, photographs, newspapers, genealogy and miscellaneous items. The only items arranged chronologically in these boxes are the letters written by Thomas Carter to his son. Box 4 contains 4 books, including the Carter family genealogy, and 5 collections of sheet music.
