Collection Overview

Biographical Information/ Administrative Information:

Reverend Aaron Whittemore I lived from December 11, 1713 to November 15, 1767. Ordained on March 2, 1738, he was the first pastor of the Congregational Church in Pembroke, NH. Reverend Whittemore married Abigail Coffin of Newbury, MA on February 2, 1743.

Aaron Whittemore II lived from April 9, 1746 to May 1, 1817. Whittemore II was prominent in Pembroke, NH town affairs. He was a soldier during the American Revolution. On January 11, 1770, he married Sarah Gilman of Exeter, NH.

Aaron Whittemore III lived from November 28, 1774 to April 26, 1850. He and his brother Richard commended trade at the Whittemore place in Pembroke, NH as early as 1797. Aaron quit the trade and built a house where he also kept a tavern. Whittemore was elected town clerk and New Hampshire State Representative in 1803. In 1813, he settled the line between Chichester, NH and Pembroke, NH and served as Justice of the Peace from 1812-1850. He married Lydia Fisk of Derry, NH on February 28, 1776.

Aaron Whittemore IV lived from November 4, 1808 to March 26, 1890.

In his early years, he was active in the militia. He was a trustee of Pembroke Academy and Superintendent of Schools in 1843, 1856, and 1860. He helped found and was later president of the Peoples Literary Institution and Gymnasium. He held positions as Justice of the Peace, 1838-1890; Postmaster, 1828-1842; Deputy Sheriff, 1841-1844; and selectman, 1842-1844, 1847-1852, and 1863-1869. He served as Associate Justice of the Court of Common Pleas for Merrimack County from 1853 until the courts changed. He was a representative to the Legislature in 1849-1850 and member of the Constitutional Conventions in 1850 and 1876. He married Ariannah S. Barstow of Exeter, NH on December 13, 1840.

Aaron Whittemore V lived from January 18, 1849 to May 4, 1885. He was educated at Pembroke Academy and Harvard Law School. In 1870, he was admitted to the New Hampshire Bar and established a practice in Pittsfield, NH. In 1883, he served in the New Hampshire State Legislature. He was married to Achsah L. Cheney of Bradford, NH on September 27, 1876.

Arthur Gilman Whittemore lived from July 26, 1856 to 1931. He was the son of Aaron Whittemore IV and Ariannah Whittemore. Educated at Pembroke Academy and Harvard Law School, Arthur Whittemore was admitted to the Bar in 1879. After, he practiced law in Dover, NH. During his life, Arthur held many political offices including Mayor, New Hampshire Senator, representative to the New Hampshire Constitutional Commission, and a representative to the Governor's Council. From 1903 to 1911, Arthur was on the New Hampshire Railroad Commission.

Collection Scope and Content Note:

The Whittemore Family Papers cover five generations of the family, 1756-1932. The papers of Aaron Whittemore (1808-1890) constitute the bulk of the collection. However, since the five generations of Aaron Whittemores did not use middle initials or distinguishing numbers, much of the collection has been organized chronologically without an attempt to separate the Aarons. This system was also used as they served consecutive but overlapping positions as Justice of the Peace and Deputy Sheriff.

The estate papers contain information of many other local families. Box 19 contains papers related to Franklin Pierce and Asa Fowler's law practice in the 1830's and 1840's. There are 19 folders of papers on the Cochecho and other railroads dated 1845 to 1870. Pembroke town history for the years 1756 to 1867 is represented through deeds, town papers, receipts, taxes and Deputy Sheriff accounts

The papers of Arthur Gilman Whittemore of Dover, NH reflect city politics of the early 1920's. Caroline Rundlett Whittemore's papers show a profile of women's social activities and clubs of the period.
