Collection Overview

Biographical Information

James F. Briggs (1827-1905) was born in Bury, England. He was brought to the United States when his parents emigrated to Holderness, NH, in 1829. He studied law with W.C. Thompson, J. Burrows and N. Butler and was admitted to the bar in 1851. He practiced in Hillsborough, NH, until August, 1862, when he was mustered in as Quartermaster in the 11th NH Volunteers. After the battle of Fredericksburg in December 1862, he resigned but was reappointed and mustered in again in January, 1863. He participated in the siege of Vicksburg, MS and was discharged again in August, 1863.

He returned to the practice of law after the Civil War and in 1871, moved to Manchester, NH. He was elected to Congress and served from 1877 to 1883. He died in Manchester on January 21, 1905.

Collection Scope and Content Note:

Most of the James F. Briggs Papers fall into two categories: those documenting his Civil War service and those from his legal practice. The Civil War materials are chiefly quarterly returns of stores received and issued, with some orders and correspondence. His law papers are scattered among five legal cases, most items being from the Manchester & Keene Railroad v. City of Keene litigation dated 1882-1885.

In addition, there are work receipts from a textile mill for several women with surname Briggs dated 1848. Some deeds, certificates, and writings that are either school essays or addresses given to unidentified audiences are included in the collection.

There is no personal correspondence.

Arrangement:

The papers have been separated into three parts.

Folders 1-3 contain a miscellany of documents and writings: work receipts in textile mills for several women with a Briggs surname but whose relationship to James F. Briggs is unknown, deeds, certificates, bills, and what seem to be school essays or speeches for unidentified audiences. 1848-1984 and not dated.

Folders 4-9 each contain documents about a legal case, 1865-1873.

Folders 10-17 are Quartermaster returns, correspondence, orders and reports generated during his Civil War service in the 11th NH Volunteers. 1862-1863.
