Access and Use

Acquisition Information and Provenance:
The Perry-Dudley Family Papers came to the New Hampshire Historical Society in 2002, donated by Klaudia Shepard, widow of Henry B. Shepard Jr. The materials relating to the Perry and Gilman families of Exeter, NH, were first collected by Frances Perry Dudley (1861-1953) and added to by her daughter, Frances Dudley Shepard (1898-1998), who in turn was the mother of Henry B. Shepard Jr. Those relating to the Shepard family of Holderness and Derry, NH, were collected by Henry B. Shepard Jr. The collection included items for the library, archives, and museum and was designated the Perry-Dudley Family Archive and Shepard Collection. The Perry-Dudley Family Papers are a part of this collection.

The entire collection should be credited as "Gift of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Shepard, Jr., in memory of Mr. Shepard's mother and maternal grandmother."

Additional items were added to the collection in 2020 and are labeled with the accession number "2020.056." These items should be credited as "Gift of the Shepard Family." Items with accession number "2022.038" are as "Gift of Klaudia S. Shepard." Some items in this donation were also transferred to the library or the ephemera collection.

Collection Overview

Biographical Information:
The families represented in this collection (Dudley, Fisk, Gilman, Jewett, Perry, Shepard, and their relatives) were involved in business, shipping, farming, woolen textile factories, medical practice, teaching, keeping house, and raising children, among other incidental activities. Between the late-1700s and early-1900s, they primarily lived in Derry, Holderness, and Exeter, NH, though some branches of the family also moved to Ohio, upper New York, Maine, and Massachusetts. Details about families and individuals are found in the scope and content notes for each family series. These details provide an overview of the persons relations to provide context to how all of the families are inter-related. Women, who married, are filed by the names they took upon their marriage.

Collection Scope and Content:
The Perry-Dudley Family Papers contain originals and photocopies of correspondence and related materials (business records, ephemera, photographs, etc.) of family members primarily between the late-1700s and early-1900s, though materials in this collection date from 1682 to 2002. They are family-centered materials: business records, for example, consist primarily of letters between partners who were also brothers, so family news as well as business matters were discussed, while receipts, bills, and ledgers are a minor part of the collection. There are deeds (especially for the Gilman family), but little in the way of other legal documents such as wills or estate inventories.

Letters among family members discuss daily life and include comments on the health and activities of siblings, relatives, and neighbors; reports about travel and visits; experiences at boarding school and college; and assessments of the success of local businesses and manufacturing entities.

Especially notable in their discussions of family life, farm matters, and work available in woolen mills in the area, are the letters among the Shepard brothers: George (1805-1877), Isaac (1819-1897), Samuel (1826-1891), Walter (1811-1880), and William (1816-1893, known as Henry). They were scattered around New England, but often visited each other and their parents, who lived on the family homestead in Holderness, NH.

Correspondence between the Gilman brothers, Daniel (1770-1804) and Nicholas (1775-1814), contains both family and business information about their shipping and export business run with the help of William Jarvis (1770-1859), U.S. Consul to Lisbon, Portugal.

The impacts of the Civil War (1861-1865) and World War I (1914-1918) are addressed minimally in the correspondence in this collection. Edgar H. Shepard (1843-1865) enlisted in the Civil War and died before he left camp in New Hampshire, though he corresponded with a cousin who served as a hospital attendant. William Perry Dudley (1891-1965) served in World War I and was wounded in action, but the collection contains none of his letters and only few mentions of him. Edward Hale Perry (1887-1918) served in France during World War I and was killed on the Somme less than a year after he enlisted. His file contains letters from comrades after his death.

The Perry-Dudley Family Papers contain extensive genealogical correspondence, notes, research, and charts, most of which was probably carried out by Frances Dudley Shepard, but much of it is undated. Genealogical information is filed with the families in series one through seven, then any remaining genealogical material is found in series eight.

Items of note:
There are over 1,000 undated postcards from Dudley family trips to Europe at the end of the 1800s and again in the 1920s that were collected for the photographs of art and architecture. Most are loose, but some are in scrapbooks. See Boxes 6-11.

There are three possibly postmortem photographic images:

- An unidentified child. See Box 51, Album 7.
- Lucy Beck Shepard, an old woman. See Box 54, Item 11.
- Gardiner Dudley, an infant. See Box 56, Folder 4.

Items of interest in the printed materials include:

- 14 Confederate newspapers printed between 1862 and 1865. See Drawer 73, Folder 4.
- Little Red Riding Hood, London, 1864 [pages brittle, condition poor]. See Box 15, Folder 11.
- Simon Lowth letter to Dr Stillingfleet, London, 1687. See Box 15, Folder 11.
- Nonconformists Plea for Lay-Communion with the Church of England by John Corbet. London, 1683. See Box 16, Folder 5.
- Mr. Whitfield's Journal from his Arrival at Savannah to his Return to London, London, 1739. See Box 16, Folder 8.

Arrangement:
This collection has been divided into nine series. They are organized by surname and type.

The first seven series relate to family and are arranged by family surname. The materials in each series are grouped according to their primary relationship with a specific family. Within a series, materials are arranged alphabetically, first by last name then by first name of the family member. They are further organized by genre (correspondence, ephemera, personal papers, and writings, which include everything from diaries to school essays) and chronologically within each genre. Genealogical information not directly related to the families in series one through seven, and photographs constitute their own series, eight and nine.

Materials in this collection are organized into the following series:

Series 1. Dudley, 1683-2001	Boxes 1-16
Series 2. Fisk, 1828-2001	Boxes 16-17
Series 3. Gilman, 1703-2000	Boxes 17-23
Series 4. Jewett, 1803-1967	Boxes 24-27
Series 5. Perry, 1682-2001	Boxes 27-38

Box 0. Finding Aid, Donor Inventory

Note on Donor Inventory: Henry B. Shepard Jr., son of Frances Dudley Shepard, who acted as family historian and gathered many of the materials in the collection, wrote an extensive and detailed inventory of items organized by the location in which they were stored in his home. Often, he included explanatory notes and he transcribed items he found interesting. Although the material is no longer in the order indicated in his work, researchers wanting a complete sense of the family should consult it. His commentary incorporates the brief, penciled notes his mother had attached to some items that added background information and sometimes comments on the personality or history of the person or event. While many of these remain and have been kept with the items to which they were attached, undoubtedly some have been lost.

Series 1. Dudley, 1683-2001

Extent: 130 folders, 3 scrapbooks, and approximately 1,000 postcards

Scope and Content: Series 1 consists of the Dudley family papers. The Dudley family papers center on Albertus True Dudley (1866-1955) and his wife, Frances Perry (1861-1953), and constitute a large part of the collection because Frances gathered much of the information and materials, an activity completed by her daughter, Frances Dudley Shepard (1898-1998). Her genealogical and family research is found at the beginning of the series. In addition to family correspondence, there is also ephemera, scrapbooks, postcards of European travels, writings (essays, diaries, notebooks), and printed matter collected by family members.

Martha Jane Bartlett Angell (1833-1919) was the daughter of Levi Bartlett (1784-1864) and Clarissa Walker (1788-1845), and though her parents were born in New Hampshire, she was born in Boston, MA. She married Henry C. Angell (1829-1911) in 1859. She and her husband lived at 16 Beacon Street in Boston, and collected art. Many of the pieces were given to the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston. She also left some paintings to Frances Perry Dudley (1861-1953). Her papers date from 1888 to 1922. Her papers are filed with the Dudley family as Frances Perry and Albertus Dudley were the recipients of the letters in this collection. These are found after the Dudley family genealogical material and printed matter.

Albertus True Dudley (1866-1955) was married to Frances Perry (1861-1953), and was father to William Perry Dudley (1891-1965), Gardiner Blanchard Dudley (1893-1894), and Frances Dudley Shepard (1898-1998). He was the son of Horace Franklin Dudley (1832-1884), a Congregational minister, and Josephine Lamson (1838-1917), and grew up in New York state. He majored in Classics at Harvard, from which he graduated in 1887, and became an expert gymnast while there. He taught and was director of the gymnasium at Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, NH, from 1887 to 1895, and later at Noble and Greenough's School in Boston, from 1896 to 1916. Between 1903 and 1915, he published twelve books of stories about school life, which he followed with two historical novels in 1923 and 1933. After 1916, he retired from formal employment, but was active in many civic affairs and fraternal associations.

Throughout his life, he traveled extensively in Europe and compiled collections of postcards, the majority of which have no messages on them, and art history illustrations, some of which are in scrapbooks while others are filed loose; see Boxes 6 through 12. Box 9 contains a 'scrapbook,' which was a stack of loose, commercially produced images of paintings, sculpture, architecture found together in a box. Box 12 contains a 'scrapbook' found with Albertus Dudley's papers, but probably belonged to Frances Perry, his wife, since some are signed "Frances Perry." The scrapbook is a collection of unbound classical and popular piano and vocal music found tied together in two portfolios.

He also served as executor for the estates of relatives in the 1930s; these papers are filed under legal documents. There is little documentation of the writing or publication of his novels, though his writings include some drafts of short pieces as well as extensive notes on town records. His correspondence dates from 1896 to 1954.

Frances Fisk Gilman Perry Dudley (1861-1953) was married to Albertus True Dudley (1866-1955), and was mother to William Perry Dudley (1891-1965), Gardner Blanchard Dudley (1893-1894), and Frances Dudley Shepard (1898-1998). Frances grew up in Exeter, NH, and was the daughter of a physician, William Gilman Perry (1823-1910), and his wife, Lucretia Morse Fisk (1826-1896). Her grandfather, also an Exeter physician named William Perry (1788-1887), established the Exeter home at 14 Front Street in 1813. She was the first family historian, gathering and preserving family papers. She also shared stories and history gleaned from those papers and her own memory. She purchased the Gilman Garrison house in Exeter, which had been built by her ancestor John Gilman, to preserve it. Her correspondence dates from 1871 to 1951.

In addition to correspondence, her papers contain sketches, drawings, and handwritten and illustrated small books to amuse young children. Her writings include diaries and a history of and reminiscence about Exeter.

Horace Franklin Dudley (1832-1884) was married to Josephine Lamson (1840-1917), and was born in Hanover, NH. He graduated from Dartmouth College in 1859, and then the Auburn Theological Seminary in 1862. After serving several congregations, he was called to the First Congregational Church of Warsaw, NY, where he served until his death. He was the father of Albertus True Dudley (1866-1955) and James Willard Dudley (1864-1906). His sermons were written between 1862 and 1881.

James Willard Dudley (1864-1906) was the son of Horace Franklin Dudley (1832-1884) and Josephine Lamson (1840-1917) and brother of Albertus True Dudley (1866-1955). James graduated from Harvard in 1887, and received his medical degree from there in 1891. He practiced in Minneapolis, MN, for several years, but moved to the southwest for his health in 1898. After working as a physician in mining camps, his health became worse, and he moved to a sanitorium in California, where he died in 1906. His diary is not dated, but was probably written between 1900 and 1905.

William Perry Dudley (1891-1965) was the son of Albertus True Dudley (1866-1955) and Frances Perry (1861-1953), and grew up in Exeter, NH, with his sister Frances Dudley Shepard (1898-1998). He graduated from Harvard University in 1913, and served in World War I, where he was wounded. His first two marriages ended in divorce, first to Rosamond Houghton Whitney (1894-1969) and second to Grace Eliot (1892-1950). He lived for long periods of time in France, where he restored a chateau near Tours. In 1940, he returned to Exeter with his third wife, Marika Cassapoglou, and their daughter, Anne Dudley Egan (1942-2014). He was an architect, who was also active in historic preservation, particularly in the town of Exeter. During the divorce proceedings from his third wife, Marika, he shot and wounded his wife and then turned the gun on himself. Although there is an account of William's life in this collection, materials he refers to in compiling it did not come to the New Hampshire Historical Society.

Anna Dudley Egan (1942-2014) was the daughter of William Perry Dudley (1891-1965) and Marika Cassapoglou. She married Leroy James Egan (1942-2013). Materials consist of a few family letters written between 1967 and 1996.

Series 2. Fisk, 1828-2001

Extent: 25 folders

Scope and Content: This series consists of family correspondence and genealogy of the Fisk family, primarily of Concord, NH. The families are related with the Perry family through Abigail Gilman Perry Fisk (1824-1868), the daughter of William Perry (1788-1887) and Abigail Gilman (1789-1860), and Lucrecia Morse Fisk (1826-1896), who married William Gilman Perry (1823-1910). The latter two people are included in the series on the Perry family.

Note: The Fisk family is interchangeably referred to as Fisk and Fiske. For the purpose of this finding aid, the name has been spelled as Fisk, though the people in the collection may be addressed as both Fisk and Fiske within the papers.

Abigail Gilman Perry Fisk (1824-1868) was the daughter of William Perry (1788-1887) and Abigail Gilman (1789-1860). She was married to Francis Allen Fisk (1819-1887). Together they had nine children and lived in Concord, NH. Her brother William Gilman Perry (1823-1910) married her husband's sister, Lucretia Morse Fisk (1826-1896). Abigail's correspondence dates from 1843 to 1864. She is often referred to as Abba or Abby.

Abigail Gilman Fisk (1862-1948) was the daughter of Francis Allen Fisk (1819-1887) and Abigail Gilman Perry (1824-1868). Her correspondence dates from 1875 to 1886, and is mostly signed Abby or Abba. She writes to her cousin Francis Perry Dudley (1861-1953) and her grandfather William Perry (1788-1887).

Allen Fisk (1789-1875) and Ezra Fisk (1776-1870) were brothers of Francis Nourse Fisk (1780-1870). Allen Fisk's correspondence dates from 1864 and 1867. He writes from Chicago, IL, and Cincinnati, OH. Ezra Fisk's correspondence dates from 1860 to 1867, and he writes from Fayette, ME.

Francis Allen Fisk (1819-1887) was the son of Francis Nourse Fisk (1780-1870) and Mary Walker Emery (1786-1847). He was married to Abigail Gilman Perry (1824-1868) and lived in Concord, NH. After his first wife died in 1868, he married Abbie B. Parker (1846-1925) in 1872. She is also referred to as Abby and Abba, and died in Cambridge, MA. His correspondence is from 1869.

Francis Nourse Fisk (1780-1870) was married to Mary "Polly" Walker Emery (1786-1847), and primarily lived in Concord, NH, where he worked as a merchant and later served in the state legislature and executive council. His correspondence dates from 1854 to 1870.

Frank Walker Fisk (1851-1886) was the son of Francis Allen Fisk (1819-1887) and Abigail Gilman Perry (1824-1868). His correspondence is undated, though he writes from Golden, CO, where he married his wife Hattie E. Hubbard (born 1855).

John Taylor Fisk (1866-1940) son of Frances Allen Fisk (1819-1887), and Abigail Gilman Perry (1824-1868). He married Mary Amelia Lillie (1862-1946) in 1888, in Georgia. His correspondence is from 1884 to 1928.

Mary "Minnie" Walker Fisk (1850-1877) was the daughter of Francis Allen Fisk (1819-1887) and Abigail Gilman Perry (1824-1868). Her correspondence is from 1863 to 1877.

William Perry Fisk (1853-1914) lived in Concord, NH, and was the son of Francis Allen Fisk (1819-1887) and Abigail Gilman Perry (1824-1868). His correspondence is from 1872 to 1880.

Sarah Walker Fisk Tarleton (1814-1882) was married to James Tarleton (1810-1880). Sarah was the sister of Lucretia Fisk Perry (1826-1894) and Francis Allen Fisk (1819-1887). She is described by others in the family as "Aunt Tarleton." Her husband James entered into the cotton trade in Alabama, but then failed and returned to New Hampshire, where he was postmaster in Concord. Franklin Pierce appointed him as U.S. Consul to Australia, a position he served for six years, from 1853 to 1859. Following their return to the United States, James and Sarah lived predominantly in Alabama. Her few letters are from 1836 and 1882. Of particular note is a scrapbook of Australian seaweed made by Sarah Fisk Tarleton while there in the early 1850s.

Joseph Burbeen Walker (1822-1913) was a great-grandson of Reverend Timothy Walker (1737-1822), one of the early settlers of Concord. Series 3. Gilman, 1703-2000
Extent: 103 folders
Scope and Content: The Gilmans, for whom there is extensive genealogical information at the beginning of this series, were important in New Hampshire and national politics. John Taylor Gilman served as Governor of New Hampshire twice, but the collection contains no papers or documents from those activities. The Gilman materials concentrate on Daniel (1770-1804) and Nicholas (1755-1814) and their shipping business, Gilman and Gilman Shipping, which they operated with William Jarvis, consul to Lisbon, who oversaw the European side of the business. Much of the correspondence is about business matters, but they also discuss some family affairs. Deeds related to the Gilman family are filed at the beginning of this series. There is additional material from people related to the Gilmans at the end of the series.

Gilman family members for whom there are papers are listed below. Note that first names repeat and the generations sometimes overlap (there are six Nicholas Gilmans, for example). Although care has been taken to try to identify which is which, it is possible that some items are filed with the incorrect person.

Charles Frederick Gilman (1785-1808) addressed his letters as "Honored Father" to Nicholas Gilman (1755-1814), though there is no record of Nicholas Gilman's marriage or children beyond these letters. He also writes to his uncle, Daniel Gilman (1770-1804). He worked in his family's shipping business in Lisbon, Portugal, primarily with William C. Jarvis (1770-1859). He died of smallpox in Lisbon, in 1808. His correspondence dates from 1801 to 1808.

Charles Jervis Gilman (1824-1901) was the son of Nathaniel Gilman (1793-1858) and Elizabeth Gardiner (1798-1838). He lived in Maine and was a friend of Sarah Orne Jewett (1849-1909). He married Alice Dunlap (1827-1905). Biographical information is included in this series.

Daniel Gilman (1770-1804) and his older brother Nicholas Gilman (1755-1814), began a shipping business in 1792, known as Gilman and Gilman Shipping. William C. Jarvis (1770-1859), consul to Lisbon, oversaw the business from Europe. The name eventually changed to Daniel Gilman and Co. Shipping. He never married. His correspondence dates from 1793 to 1804. Much of the latter part of his correspondence is from abroad and concerns his shipping business.

Daniel Gilman (1804-1841) was the son of Nathaniel Gilman (1759-1847) and Dorothea Folsom (1775-1859), he was a seaman and died at sea. His sole paper is from 1835.

None of his correspondence is present in the collection.

Elizabeth Frances "Fanny" Gilman (1822-1909) was the daughter of Nathaniel Gilman (1793-1858) and Elizabeth Gardiner (1798-1838). She lived in Exeter and never married. Her correspondence dates from 1839 to 1901.

1912), and Nicholas Gilman (1834-1854). Only Charles had children. Her correspondence is from 1807 to 1830.

Gardiner Gilman (1829-1912) was the son of Nathaniel Gilman (1793-1858) and Elizabeth Gardiner (1798-1838). As a young man he sailed to California, then served in the Civil War with the Massachusetts 45th Regiment. Returning from the war, he lived on and managed the family estate in Exeter, which he eventually bequeathed to his alma mater, Philips Exeter Academy. He never married. His correspondence dates from 1852 to 1907.

Sarah was a noted New England author, most famous for her 1896 novel, The Country of the Pointed Firs. She lived most of her life in her family's home in South Berwick, which is now a museum. This series contains her correspondence, ephemera, and writings, both published and unpublished. Her correspondence dates from 1870 to 1908. Though there are some writings in the collection, there is little information about her career as a writer in her correspondence, which is mostly of a familial nature.

Theodore Furber Jewett (1787-1860) was the father of Theodore Herman Jewett (1815-1878). He had four wives: Sarah Orne (1797-1819), Olive Walker (1790-1826), Mary Rice (1786-1854), and Elizabeth Sleeper (1792-1870). He was a ship-owner and merchant in South Berwick. Series 5. Perry, 1682-2001
Extent: 155 folders and approximately 35 magazines
Scope and Content. Perry family members conducted extensive genealogical research, which has been placed as found at the beginning of the series. The most fully documented family members are the father and son physicians, William Perry (1788-1887) and William Gilman Perry (1823-1910), both of whom practiced in Exeter, NH. Records of their practices are not part of this collection. The medical papers of William Perry (1788-1887) and William Gilman Perry (1823-1910) were a previous gift of Frances Dudley Shepard (1898-1998) and are filed under call number 1992.020. The series includes extensive correspondence between family members, as well as some other business records, writings, and publications.

Series 6. Shepard, 1770-1998
Extent: 329 folders
Scope and Content: The Shepard family primarily lived in Derry and Holderness, NH. Much of the correspondence is among brothers: Isaac (1819-1897), Samuel (1829-1891), William Henry called Henry (1816-1893), George (1805-1887), and Walter (1811-1880). They wrote to and visited each other frequently, sharing news about family and friends as well as information about woolen factories, employment opportunities therein, and their finances. One letter written by Henry refers to 'diseased wool' and how sorting it made workers sick. The brothers also discussed their sister, Elizabeth Shepard Cutter (1807-1874), who left her husband in 1851, and raised her two daughters alone. Taken together, correspondence among the brothers offers a detailed picture of life in New Hampshire in the early to middle 1800s.

Included in this series are also materials related to people directly and indirectly related to the Shepard family like that of the Bartlett family genealogy and family papers, the Cutter family, the Cilley family genealogy, and Abner Johnson (1783-1872) papers.

William Henry's great-grandson, Henry B. Shepard Jr., was the final compiler and donor of this collection. Another great-grandson was the astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr.; the collection contains only a small amount of biographical information about him.

Family members for whom there are papers include:

Elizabeth Shepard Cutter (1807-1874) was the daughter of William Blair Shepard (1779-1867) and Lucy Beck (1782-1862). She married James Cutter (born 1805), but they separated around 1850, and her brothers speak of her in their letters to each other. This series contains correspondence from Elizabeth Shepard Cutter and her daughters, Antoniette De Grave Cutter Knight (1845-1890) and Rosina Cutter (1849-1875). Their correspondence dates from 1845 to 1873, and is mostly to family members.

Abner Johnson (1783-1872) was the father of Rosina Johnson (1817-1886), who married William Henry Shepard (1816-1893). Abner Johnson lived in Framingham, MA, where he operated a store. The collection includes business records created between 1848 and 1869, and correspondence dated between 1823 and 1871.

Alan "Bart" Bartlett Shepard (1891-1973) was the son of Frederick J. Shepard (1851-1931) and Annie Bartlett (1861-1944). He married Pauline Renza Emerson (1900-1993). They lived in Derry. His correspondence dates from 1906 to 1910.

Alan B. Shepard Jr. (1923-1998) was born in Derry, NH, the son of Alan Bartlett Shepard (1891-1973) and Pauline Renza Emerson (1900-1993). He was an astronaut. There is a small amount of biographical information in this collection.

Annie Bartlett Shepard (1861-1944) was born in Nottingham, NH, to Thomas Bradbury Bartlett (1826-1905) and Victoria Cilley (1831-1905). She compiled the Bartlett and Cilley family materials found in this collection. There is also a document signed by Joseph Cilley regarding an injured soldier during the Revolutionary War, dated January 22, 1779. Annie was a teacher who moved to Derry, NH, in 1885. She married Frederick J. Shepard (1851-1931) in 1887. She was active in many civic and political organizations. She was the mother of Frederick J. Shepard Jr. (1889-1973), Alan Bartlett Shepard (1891-1973), and Henry Bradbury Shepard (1893-1986). In addition to the family genealogical material, this collection includes correspondence, ephemera, writings, and printed matter, dating between 1871 and 1943, with some items that she collected predating her.

Edgar H. Shepard (1843-1865) was the son of William Henry Shepard (1816-1893) and Rosina Johnson (1817-1886). Edgar died of "spotted fever" after enlisting in the 18th Regiment, New Hampshire Volunteers to serve in the Civil War. He never left training camp. His papers include a record of work done on farms before his enlistment and a few letters from a cousin, Arthur Saden, describing his service as a hospital steward with the 22nd Massachusetts Volunteers, 1st Brigade, 1st Division, based in Virginia. Edgar's material includes correspondence, financial records, diaries, and some writings dating from 1855 to 1865.

Frances Dudley Shepard (1898-1998) was born in Exeter, NH, to Albertus T. Dudley (1866-1955) and Frances Perry (1861-1953). She married Henry B. Shepard (1898-1986) in 1925. Along with her mother and son Henry B. Shepard Jr. (1927-2002), Frances Dudley Shepard was responsible for compiling most of the collection. She lived much of her life in West Newton, MA. The collection includes her correspondence and writings, dating from 1913 to 1988.

Frederick Johnson Shepard (1851-1931) was born in Framingham, MA, to William Henry Shepard (1816-1893) and Rosina Johnson (1817-1886). He married Annie Bartlett (1861-1944). He lived in Derry, NH, where he worked as a banker and was active in civic, political, and fraternal organizations. He served on the staff of Governor John McLane (1852-1911) from 1905 to 1907, and was present at the Russian-Japanese Peace Conference that took place in Portsmouth, NH, in 1905, though the collection contains no documentation of those activities. His correspondence and ephemera date from 1865 to 1925.

Frederick J. "Fritz" Shepard Jr. (1889-1973) was the son of Frederick J. Shepard (1851-1931) and Annie Bartlett (1861-1944). A graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he co-founded the Lewis-Shepard Company, which made lift trucks; he lived in Massachusetts. In World War I, he served in the U.S. Army Ordinance Corps. His papers and correspondence date from 1900 to 1938. Correspondence is exclusively to family members.

George Livermore Shepard (1805-1887) was the son of William Blair Shepard (1779-1867) and Lucy Beck (1782-1862). He married his cousin Nancy Livermore (1809-1896). The family lived in Holderness, NH. His correspondence dates from 1843 to 1879, and is written to family members about his life and farm work.

Henry Bradbury Shepard Sr. (1893-1986) was born in Derry, NH, to Frederick J. Shepard (1851-1931) and Annie Bartlett (1861-1944). He married Anna Fulton (1897-1923) in 1922, and after her passing, he married Frances Dudley (1898-1998). He grew up in Derry, but after graduating from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he settled in Newton, MA. He served as a naval officer in both World Wars. Some of his writings are reminiscences. In addition to writings are correspondence, postcards, ephemera, and school papers. The material dates from 1910 to 2001, with the material after Henry Shepard's death related to the birth, marriage, and death of his first wife.

Henry B. Shepard Jr. (1927-2002) was the son of Henry B. Shepard (1893-1986) and Frances Dudley (1898-1998). He married Klaudia Steidle (1932-2020). A graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy, Yale University, and Harvard Law School, Shepard practiced law in Boston. He was a board member of the New Hampshire Historical Society and the donor of this collection. His materials date from 1949 to 1994, and include correspondence, ephemera, and some writings.

Isaac Shepard (1819-1897) was the son of William Blair Shepard (1779-1867) and Lucy Beck (1782-1862). Isaac taught school in winter and worked as a wool sorter in various factories in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, in the summer. He corresponded with family members about the farm in Holderness and employment opportunities in the mills. His correspondence dates from 1835 to 1878.

Rosina Johnson Shepard (1817-1886) was the daughter of Abner R. Johnson (1783-1872) and Mary Quimby (1795-1866). She married William Henry Shepard (1816-1893). They had three children: Edgar H. Shepard (1843-1865), Albert Shepard (1849-1851), and Frederick Johnson Shepard (1851-1931). Her correspondence dates from 1838 to 1881.

Samuel Shepard (1829-1891) was the son of William Blair Shepard (1779-1867) and Lucy Beck (1782-1862). He worked in wool manufacturing, often as a sorter. He wrote from Londonderry and Manchester, reporting on business and family news such as the death of a toddler nephew and his sister, Elizabeth, leaving her husband in 1851. His correspondence dates from 1841 to 1881.

Walter B. Shepard (1811-1880) was the son of William Blair Shepard (1779-1867) and Lucy Beck (1782-1862). He worked in hotels and resorts throughout New England, living with his parents in Londonderry between jobs. He did not marry and died in Boston. His correspondence dates from 1838 to 1876. The collection also includes paperwork upon Walter's death in 1880.

William Blair Shepard (1779-1867) was born in Holderness, NH, to Jacob Shepard (1750-1830) and Jane Blair (1756-1835). He married Lucy Beck (1782-1862). They lived in Londonderry, NH, and the collection contains business records indicating he was a farmer who dealt in animals (cattle, sheep), and their products (meat, hides). It should be noted that some of the business records from the 1830s could have belonged to his son, William H. Shepard (1816-1893), and have been filed with William H. Shepard. William Blair Shepard's business records date from 1805 to 1852.

William Henry "Henry" Shepard, (1816-1893) was born to William Blair Shepard (1779-1867) and Lucy Beck (1782-1862). He married Rosina Johnson (1817-1886), and they had three children: Edgar H. Shepard (1843-1865), Albert Shepard (1849-1851), and Frederick Johnson Shepard (1851-1931). He was almost always addressed as Henry to differentiate him from his father. Henry was involved in the wool trade, though he lived and worked in Saxonville (Framingham), MA. The collection includes his business records, correspondence, and ephemera, dating from 1837 to 1883. His letters are mostly to his brothers and contain the most comprehensive documentation of family relationships and activities.

Series 7. Miscellaneous Papers, 1715-2001
Extent: 24 folders and 1 volume
Scope and Content: This series contains correspondence, personal papers, and deeds in which the relationship to other families cannot be identified or is varied. Unidentified writings are fragmentary and undated, making it difficult to attribute them to any one author or family. Biographical information is provided below for named individuals in this series.

Elizabeth Adams (dates unknown) has an unknown relationship to the families though she is writing to family members from Derry, between 1865 and 1870.

John Burnham (1749-1818) has an unknown relationship to other families in this collection. He was from Londonderry, but served in the American Revolution as a Major for Massachusetts. He fought at Bunker Hill and was a founding member of the Society of the Cincinnati. This series contains a document from 1798, detailing a transfer in church membership from Ipswich to Londonderry.

Levi Smith (1812-1879) was the son of David and Eleanor Smith. He finished his preparatory studies at the New Hampshire Institution in 1840, going on to preach in Danville, VT, the following year. In 1841 he married Amelia Bigelow Morse (1821-1905). He also served as chaplain in the Clinton County Prison in New York. This series contains a volume written by Smith recording the happenings of the Ministerial Conference of the Vermont Baptist Association from 1843 to 1852.

Series 8. Genealogy, 1777-2002
Extent: 18 folders
Scope and Content: This series contains genealogical information on various families. It is composed of numerous surnames: Aiken, Beck, Bell, Blair, Burley, Chadwick, Farwell, Gardiner, Hall, Ladd, Lamson, Moore, Neally, Odlin, and Osborne. It includes correspondence, family histories, and a 2002 reunion booklet for the Burley family, which highlights their connection to Annie Bartlett Shepard. It features Chadwick family histories and obituaries from 1777 to 1996, that relate to the Gilman family through their common ancestor, Nathaniel Gilman. The collection also includes genealogical sources for the Farwell family and information on the Lamson family, specifically regarding Josephine Lamson, the mother of Albertus True Dudley. Additionally, there are extensive notes on the Neally family's ancestral ties to the Dudley family and a folder of genealogical data on the Odlin family, who shared multiple business and marital links with both the Gilmans and the Perrys.

Series 9. Photographs, 1859-2001, undated

Extent: 17 photograph albums, 51 cased photographs, and 82 folders of loose photographs

Scope and Content: Photographs are of both individual family members and groups, and include family homesteads. Three disassembled albums contain undated images of the Chester-Derry Railroad (Derry, NH), and of Derry and Holderness, NH. There are a few images which may have been taken postmortem: Gardiner Dudley (an infant, Box 56, Folder 4); Lucy Beck Shepard (an old woman, Box 54, Item 11); and an unidentified child (Box 51, Album 7). Almost all the images are identified either on the image or in an index, but almost none are dated, though most appear to have been taken between the 1860s and 1930s. The series includes some notes from 2001 on the photographs. Information on processing or the condition of the items is found in brackets below the folder title.

Arrangement: Except for one very large volume, the photograph albums have been placed in larger boxes and numbered within them (Boxes 50 to 52). Cased images are numbered within Boxes 53 to 54. Loose photographs are in folders by surname in Boxes 55 to 59. See also photographs in Drawer 73, Folder 2.
